

Guide for a doctoral degree application

The Australian Association of Social Workers (AASW) is the professional association for qualified social workers in Australia. It is a self-regulating profession. The AASW is an assessing authority on behalf of the Australian Government for migration purposes against the Criterion set out below.

The Migration and Eligibility Assessment (MEA) Team assesses:

- overseas social work qualifications for migration purposes
- overseas social work qualifications to determine eligibility for AASW membership for employment purposes.

The AASW is also able to assess a Doctorate of Philosophy majoring in Social Work for migration assessment, first and foremost the applicant must hold a specific social work qualification that must be comparable to a Bachelor of Social Work or a Master of Social Work (qualifying) in Australia which has been assessed by AASW.

A Doctorate Degree Assessment is an additional optional assessment that applicants can apply for: (the applicant must have had their international SW qualification or AASW accredited SW qualification assessed prior to this)

The qualification of a Doctorate in Philosophy is NOT accepted as an entry to practice social work qualification in Australia and thus not a specific social work qualification. Applicants must be a professionally qualified Social Worker and thus hold tertiary qualifications in social work.

If they hold international social work qualification it must be comparable to a Bachelor of Social Work or a Master of Social Work (qualifying) in Australia.

Criteria

There are four criterion which must all be met for a for a positive doctorate degree assessment:

Criterion 1: Proof of identity.

Criterion 2: A previously successful AASW application file reference number (in the case of a individual lodged PhD application). Or the lodgement of a doctorate assessment application combined with a migration and eligibility assessment application.

Criterion 3: The qualification must be a specific PhD in social work comparable to a Doctorate of Philosophy in Australia.

Criterion 4: A high level English language skill (as per the AASW English language policy) is demonstrated.
